

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

As with all conferences, TCS-20 would not have occurred but for the generosity of our sponsors and the great dedication of so many individuals who contributed their time, energy, leadership, and creativity to planning and leading the conference. In addition to the Conference Planning Committee and TCS Officers and Board of Directors, The Coastal Society specifically acknowledges:

Paul Ticco (Coastal States Organization), current President of The Coastal Society and Kristen Fletcher, (Roger Williams University School of Law), President-Elect who provided vital overall guidance for and implementation of conference planning;

Michael Henderson (NOAA Regional Coordinator) and Mike Wascom (School of the Coast and Environment, Louisiana State University) who served as Conference Co-Chairs and contributed creative energy, logistical support, and overall leadership;

Kate Killerlain Morrison (Massachusetts Office of Coastal Zone Management) who spent hundreds of hours as Program Chair, organized presenter abstracts to create the concurrent sessions schedule, coordinated the Track Co-Chairs and communicated with the Planning Committee, presenters and moderators;

Ruth Kely (NOAA) and Lindsay Fullenkamp (Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission) who provided guidance for the Opening Plenary designed to stimulate conference attendees to think about different perspectives and innovative solutions to coastal development issues, and Lisa Schiavinato (Louisiana Sea Grant Legal Program) and Ames Colt (Rhode Island Sea Grant) who steered the effort for the Closing Plenary on coastal/offshore energy issues, with assistance from several members of the Planning Committee who served on the Plenary Subcommittee including Kristen Fletcher, Kate Killerlain Morrison, Leigh Johnson (California Sea Grant College Extension Program), Kimberly Lellis (NOAA/National Marine Fisheries Service), Steve McLeod (Florida Department of Environmental Protection), Geno Olmi (NOAA Coastal Services Center), and Mike Wascom;

The TCS20 conference Track Co-Chairs who provided valuable input into the review of presenter submissions, the organization of sessions and the identification of session moderators: Tali Engoltz (New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection), Lisa Schiavinato, Shari Currey (e2M, Inc.), Kimberly Lellis, Gib Chase (EcoConsultants International), Geno Olmi, Helene Scalliet (NOAA National Marine Sanctuary Program), Pam Rubinoff (Rhode Island Sea Grant/University of Rhode Island Coastal Resources Center), Steve MacLeod, Hilary Stockdon (United States Geological Survey), Michael Henderson, and Mike Wascom;

Gib Chase and John Duff (University of Massachusetts) who were an endless source of energy and guidance for the sponsorship of the conference;

Laurie Jodice (Clemson University), Ariel Cuschnir (The Louis Berger Group, Inc.), Rick Burroughs (University of Rhode Island), Gib Chase, Robert Goodwin (TCS Cascadia Chapter President), Heather Brandon (Alaska Department of Fish and Game) and Thomas Bigford (NOAA's National Marine Fisheries Service) who led the efforts to promote and recognize student participation and excellence at the conference;

Chantal Lefebvre and Dan Hellin (both of the Urban Harbors Institute at the University of Massachusetts) who were responsible for the layout and design of the Preliminary Program, Final Program and Abstract Book; and who created and maintained the conference web page and planning committee web page;

Ray Talamo (Roger Williams University) who designed the Call for Papers, and Becky Ellis who designed the official conference logo;

Leigh Johnson (California Sea Grant College Extension Program) who took on the role of Proceedings Editor with the assistance of Jamie Anne Gonzalez, Amber H. Himes, Marsha Gear, Joann Furse all of the California Sea Grant College Program, Maurice P. Lynch (Virginia Institute of Marine Science), and Lisa C. Schiavinato;

Kris Wall (NOAA) and Kimberly Lellis who were responsible for the high quality and variety of the conference field trips;

Lilli Ferguson (NOAA) and Tali Engoltz who worked diligently to incorporate green principles into all of our conference planning;

Tali Engoltz, Mike Wascom and Lilli Ferguson who developed the conference evaluation form;

Ginger Phillips (University of South Florida's Continuing Education Conference Management Services) who served as Conference Coordinator, and Judy Tucker, (Executive Director of The Coastal Society), who helped guide the entire planning process and Planning Committee;

Chris Simonello (Florida Sea Grant College Program) who coordinated our on-site volunteers; and Sierra Bay which supported the TCS20 Online Submission system, and Omnipress which printed the TCS-20 Proceedings.

Many thanks again to all who helped bring TCS-20 to fruition!
